

WAR NOW SEEMS INEVITABLE.

Both Russia and Japan With all Haste Are Preparing for a Mighty Conflict.

Russian Warships About Port Arthur Have Sailed for an Unknown Destination.

Pekin is Notified That Japan Refuses Further Negotiations With the Czar.

Special Meeting of the Japanese Cabinet Held on Thursday the Mikado Being Present--The Feeling of Peaceful Solution of the Trouble in Far East Has Almost Completely Disappeared.

London, Feb. 4.—(Bulletin)—A special cable to the Evening News from Peking has just been received. It reads as follows:

"Official information has been received here that the Japanese government has decided to refuse any further negotiations with Russia and to take action at once."

This is interpreted in some quarters as meaning that war in the far east has begun.

London, Feb. 4.—In all quarters it is admitted today that war in the far east seems inevitable. All reports indicate that both countries are proceeding with preparations for war with all haste. All the Russian warships which have been collected about Port Arthur, have, with one exception, sailed for unknown destinations. This report is deeply significant as an indication that Russian and Japanese warships may meet in the open sea at any time, and with minds of both sides inflamed as they are, a battle may occur without a warning or a formal declaration of war.

London, Feb. 4.—A dispatch to the Central News from Tokyo says that a special meeting of the cabinet was held this morning and that the ministers will meet again this afternoon for a consultation at which the mikado will be present.

CABINET MEETS.

Tokio, Feb. 4.—War may be expected at any moment.

There was a hurried call for a conference in which the cabinet, Marquis to Count Inouye, the other elder statesmen, the most prominent generals and naval officers were present.

The mikado himself was in the council. All sorts of surmises were current as to the causes for the council, the most generally accepted being that the Russian reply had been received either officially or unofficially, and that it is a refusal to meet Japan's demands.

If this is the case the council can mean only one of two things—the declaration of war at once, or the preparation of an ultimatum to Russia, which will mean war within a few days.

The hope expressed by the Japanese is that the government will declare at once.

The news which is current here that Russia has already crossed the Yalu and occupied points of strategic value on the Korean side, has caused intense excitement and has intensified the popular demand for immediate action.

It is pointed out that under the treaty of Shimonoseki, only Japan has a right to have troops on Korean soil, and it is urged that the crossing of the Yalu by Russian troops constitutes an act of war which should be promptly met by Japan.

News has also reached here that the Russian fleet at Port Arthur is being prepared for war.

Japan is believed to have a considerable force in Korea now.

They have been sent there under the guise of railroad workmen and guards.

HOPE ABANDONED.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 4.—All hope of peace has practically been abandoned here.

It is said that there has been an unofficial exchange of views to Russia's reply between St. Petersburg and Tokyo, and that the czar has given up any idea of being able to frame his reply in any way which will satisfy Japan.

Hence the great increase in activity in the preparations for war.

The formal reply will probably be sent to Tokyo today and it is expected that this will end the diplomatic negotiations.

LOOKS WARLIKE.

Paris, Feb. 4.—The general opinion here today is that the situation in the far east is less reassuring and the impatience of the Japanese is regarded as a dangerous element.

SEA BATTLE IMMINENT.

Port Arthur (via Chefoo), Feb. 4.—1:02 a. m. (Eastern time).—The Russian fleet has left Port Arthur.

The destination of the fleet is in the neighborhood of Chemulpo, Korea, to be ready to engage the Japanese fleet in battle the moment war is declared.

The Russian cruiser Bo-Yarin, previous to the departure of the fleet, arrived with complete charts of the Korean coast.

Officials here ascribe the departure of the fleet as being in response to the feverish Japanese war measures.

In consequence of the narrow and dangerous entrance at low water it will take the warships three days to get out of the harbor. The accomplishment of this task is regarded as especially important, owing to the danger of ships being immured by an accident in the channel.

Altogether about 9,000 troops have departed, leaving 10,000 men at Port Arthur, exclusive of the troops manning the fortifications.

The arrivals of Japanese coal have been stopped.

In consequence of the military authorities that are monopolizing the use of the railroad the latter has declined to transport any more commercial freight.

The telegraph company declined to accept any more press or private messages, so they will have to be routed via Chefoo.

Forty-eight hours quarantine has been ordered against Chefoo on account of smallpox.

BIG ARMY

Of Natives Routed by Gallant Force of Germans After a Battle of Six Hours.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—The following cablegram has been received from Swakopmund, German Southwest Africa, from the commander of the German gunboat Habicht:

"The garrisons at Windhoek and Okahandja have been relieved by Franke's company with two guns. The relief of Okahandja occurred January 27, the Emperor's birthday, and was without losses.

"On January 28 there occurred a fierce battle between the brilliant little German force and the enemy, who numbered thousands. The engagement lasted for six hours and ended with the storming of the main camp of the enemy, situated on Kaiser Wilhelm Mountain. Four Germans were wounded.

"After this defeat the enemy withdrew to the Otjivangab Hills, but were surprised in getting away all the stolen cattle.

The enemy devastated all the farm and the railroad stations in the Windhoek and Okahandja districts, a portion of Karahib and the barracks of the mountain battery at Johann Albrecht's Heights. The losses so far as known are 14 settlers including women and children, killed, and in most cases the bodies were mutilated. The military losses amount to 26 and there have been 50 other fatalities.

"It is probable that Cobadlis has been besieged since January 16. The march on Amaruru will begin tomorrow. Col. Leutwein, governor of German Southwest Africa, is expected here by steamer on February 5. Lieut. Winkler has arrived here with supporters from the steamer Ernst Woermann."

This news was circulated here in extra editions of the papers and caused universal rejoicing.

In view of the manner in which the Senator rallied from the relapse yesterday, Dr. Rixey has assured the family that no alarm may need be felt.

Washington, Feb. 4.—(Bulletin)—At noon today it was admitted by the physicians that Senator Hanna's condition is serious. It is even feared that he may have typhoid fever. The Senator himself admits his grave condition and submits unreservedly to the doctors.

HAD ROUGH TIME OF IT.

Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse Reaches Port Two Days Late After the Hardest Voyage the Big Ship Ever Experienced--Encountered Cyclone.

New York, Feb. 4.—Tossed and buffeted for days by mountainous seas and heavy gales, the big steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, came in to port today two days behind her schedule. Captain Tappes says it was the roughest voyage the ship ever experienced. The Kaiser encountered three gales and a cyclone, later leaving Chertoff's ship on a heavy southeast gale which failed to blow. All day Thursday and Friday the wind howled and rain poured down. The Kaiser was out of her berth today and a rough swell in the harbor made it difficult to get her out. The Kaiser sailed at 10 o'clock today.

AUDITOR

Of Ross County Who Shot Himself Died Thursday Morning.

Chillicothe, Feb. 4.—John H. Miller, auditor of Ross county, who shot himself through the temple in his office Wednesday afternoon, died at 4:30 o'clock this morning. A commission examined the county commissioners' report and in several instances, it severely criticised the commissioners for the manner in which they had conducted their business. In no way was there any reference to Mr. Miller. In fact he was complimented for assisting the committee in its labor. Miller, however, worried about the report and this is supposed to have been the cause of his death.

TEWKSBURY MANSION FIRE.

Building Which Cost Nearly a Million Dollars Guttered by Blaze Thursday Morning--A Hotel Fire --Other Conflagrations of the Day.

New York, Feb. 4.—The famous Tewksbury mansion at 29 West 72nd street, which cost nearly $1,000,000 to build and decorate, was gutted by fire this morning. The house was recently sold to Hyman Sonn, a member of the firm of Sonn & Brothers, wealthy real estate operators, who moved in with his family ten days ago. Yesterday electric lights were installed and from defective insulation of these it is believed the fire started. While the fire was at its height there was an explosion. Every window in the house was blown out and the glass was followed by bits of valuable statuary and ar curios.

The Tewksbury mansion was made famous by a young man who had a meteoric career in Wall street. He came to this city in 1880 and soon was a member of the Consolidated exchange. During a slump in stocks in 1890 Tewksbury was a bear and he made a fortune. He disappeared in July, 1900, leaving immense debts behind. It was said he could lose half a million dollars without the flicker of an eyelid. After he acquired his fortune Tewksbury branched out in lavish splendor. He built a mansion and under his hands it blossomed like the famed Aladdin's palace of the Arabian Nights fame. The interior decorations were marvels of luxury and so magnificent as to make Tewksbury famous throughout the world. Sonn purchased the mansion for $135,000.

NO TARIFF REVISION

At This Session Declared Mr. Spooner in the Senate --Discussion of the Proposition to Loan a Few Million to the St. Louis Fair.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The additional $4,000,000 asked by the St. Louis World's Fair commissioners on pledge of gate receipts provoked quite a debate in the Senate. Mr. Tillman held the center of the stage and denounced the appropriation as a steal. Mr. Gorman declared that something should be done to aid the exposition. Mr. Hale stated that it was believed the total receipts of the fair would exceed twenty millions. The Senate adjourned without taking final action. During the debate Mr. Spooner made the important and apparently authorized announcement that the Republican party did not intend to enter into a revision of the tariff at this session of Congress. Asked why, he replied that the reason was found in the fact that such an effort would too greatly disturb the business interests of the country. A presidential election was entirely a sufficient disturbance of business without adding unnecessary to the complications.

Mr. Spooner then announced the proposition for a loan to the exposition.

A CHURCH INNOVATION

Ohio Pastor's Novel Plan to Defray Expenses.

NO SUNDAY SERVICE COLLECTIONS

Fairs, Bazaars and Other Methods For Making Money Are to Be Avoided—Pledges Are Made Once a Year to Pay All Expenses—Church Socials Are Thus Free to All.

An innovation in the financial management of churches has been introduced at Glenville, near Cleveland, O., by Rev. W. C. Detling, pastor of the People's Congregational church, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. The new plan provides for the abolishment of the collections at church services, also the admission fee at church socials. It is needless to say that the innovation is causing much comment in church circles, and that the result of Rev. Mr. Detling's experiment will be watched throughout the country with more than ordinary interest.

Under the new regime not only is there to be no church collection in connection with the church at Glenville, but bazaars and church fairs as a means of making money are to be studiously avoided, to say nothing of quilt raffles and like enterprises which are sometimes resorted to.

The means under the new plan with which a church is to be supported may be summed up in two words—personal contributions. On a Sunday in December at the Glenville church, at both the morning and evening services, pledges to cover the expenses of an entire year were requested. These were made in sums varying from a few cents to several dollars per month. It is now planned to make no further reference to contributions at any church services for one year to come. If any further funds are needed during the year the members of the church will be informed of the need privately.

According to Rev. Mr. Detling, one advantage of the new plan is that it leaves every one, whether a member or an outsider, free to attend church services without being embarrassed or annoyed by the constant call for money. Secondly, it avoids all possibility of introducing questionable ways of making money at church socials. In the third place, it is the truly businesslike way of conducting a church. Patrons of church entertainments or suppers usually are paying but a small margin to the church when the cost of giving the affair is considered. Again, the new plan leaves the church socials open to the well to do and poor alike and makes of these events what they should be.

In the statement of Rev. Mr. Detling to his people in inaugurating his new plan he said in part: "I believe that while these socials, entertainments, suppers, etc., under certain restrictions for the support of the church may not be wrong, with certain other features and conduct added—such as clap-trap, grab bag, catchpenny devices and schemes—they are pernicious and positively harmful and tend to lower the respect of the community for the church. These indirect methods, even under the wisest direction, are unbusinesslike and often the source of confusion in the community, and very often end in the depleted church treasury, while the more direct, businesslike methods would have left a credit balance."

QUAINT ADVICE IN A WILL.

Farmer Tells Family How to Care For the Chickens.

The will of Frank Pegley, a farmer who lived near Zionsville, Pa., was admitted to probate the other day, says an Allentown (Pa.) dispatch to the Philadelphia Press. The instrument was simply a letter written on the leaf of an old composition book. There were no witnesses to it, but two neighbors identified the signature.

Pegley left a wife and eleven children. In the letter he bestows advice, seasoned with frequent Scriptural allusions, upon each member of the family. Economy in farm management is urged. One sentence reads as follows: "Do not go to bed and leave chickens in the cold trees nor the pigs without a good bed. Feed regular and spare the feed while it is plenty."

The will in all respects was unusual, the spelling and grammatical forms being especially so.

A Library of Colorado History.

The University of Colorado is now making a special effort to gather books relating to the early history of Colorado, says the Denver Republican. This collection, which will be carefully catalogued and preserved, is to consist of anything and everything which will bear upon the history of the state, books printed in Colorado, written about Colorado or by Coloradans, newspapers, pamphlets relating in any way to the state, files of newspapers, public documents, etc. It is said to be a sad fact that there is no complete set of public documents of the history of Colorado in existence. Old letters, manuscripts, diaries, account books, etc., will be acceptable.

The secretary of war who permitted General Miles to retire without a word of commendation retired himself the other day in a geyser of oratory, flattery and flay-doodle with a glare of military pomp.

The fact that there are no swear words in the Japanese language is additional evidence that the realm of the Mikado has not yielded yet in any great degree to the influences of western civilization.

If the secession of Panama was accomplished without connivance on the part of the United States officials why should this government pay $15,000,000 to Colombia? If the United States did connive at the secession would not the payment of money to Colombia constitute the crime known as compounding a felony?

THE POMP OF ROOSEVELT.

When Elihu Root left Washington Monday to return to his law offices in New York he was a private citizen. But by order of the President he was escorted by a troop of cavalry from his hotel to the railroad station. Down Pennsylvania avenue, at an hour when all the great departments of the government are discharging their employees from the day's work, pranced the troop of cavalry. The clatter of the horses' hoofs, the clank of the cavalrymen's sabers, the shrill sound of the bugle and the sharp commands of the officers broke the quiet and still of the capital. In ordinary times this spectacle would have aroused awe and excitement in Washington, but we are living in an extraordinary time, and Washington has been so often excited by the capers of the strenuous warrior in the White House that its capacity in that line has been completely exhausted. Apparently the unusually heavy representations of the army and navy now kept there are for his amusement and the glorification of his friends.

DEATH OF W. C. WHITNEY.

(Pittsburg Post.)

The news of the death of William C. Whitney will shock as large a circle of friends throughout the world as would that of most any other American. It was not known that Mr. Whitney was ill until bulletins were sent out from New York Monday of his prostration from an operation for appendicitis, and it was thought that his constitution was strong enough to pull him through. Mr. Whitney belonged to that class of eminent Americans who are self-made in the broadest sense of that term. He attained great distinction at the bar of New York before turning his attention to money-making, and displayed so fine a legal ability, as well as shrewd political foresight, coupled with high integrity, that he won the respect and confidence of Samuel J. Tilden, whose lieutenant Mr. Whitney became. On the retirement of Tilden from control of the Democratic party in New York, Mr. Whitney naturally gravitated to Grover Cleveland, and was Mr. Cleveland's close and trusted adviser in the three campaigns which this sturdy leader of the Democracy made to wrest the country from the grasp of the Republicans. As a member of President Cleveland's first cabinet Mr. Whitney gave an impetus to the upbuilding of the navy which has put us among the naval powers of the world.

Later, and in fact for the past eight years, Mr. Whitney had devoted himself exclusively to his private business affairs, which were vast and expanding rapidly. His chief diversion was found in the purchase of thoroughbred horses and the development of their speed. His influence on racing in the United States was for the betterment of that sport and in this field, as in others, there is no one to take his place immediately. Mr. Whitney was a man of such varied tastes and accomplishments, and withal so democratic in his intercourse with his fellowmen, that he was seldom, if ever, thought of as a multimillionaire, and yet it is probable that his estate will be shown to be of immense proportions and of still vaster possibilities. It can be truly said that by his death the country has lost a valuable citizen.

New hose and connections have been placed on the stage, and in the balcony and gallery. Iron runs have been placed on the stage, and in the balcony and gallery. The trustees are considering both the ordinary stairway fire escapes and the cylinder tower escapes.

Only 300 tickets will be sold to the gallery. Later, however, after the escapes have been constructed and the aisles enlarged, tickets will be sold to the full capacity of the gallery.

BUCKEYE LAKE CO.

HAS MADE BIG IMPROVEMENTS AT THE PARK.

Stumps Removed and Channels Cleared—An Artificial Lake—Company Spends $10,000.

Manager Will D. Harris of Idlewild Park and Buckeye Lake, Park has made some vast improvements at the latter place, and many more are in immediate prospect. The work has been going on for a number of weeks and will be prosecuted until there will be no more attractive resort of its kind in the United States.

On Wednesday the work of clearing the lake to a channel for a thousand feet in front of Buckeye Lake park, was completed, and there will be no more inconvenience or danger from this source. About 2000 stumps were removed, the process being to pile them up on the ice and sled them to the shore, where they are piled to dry out when they will be burned.

Manager Harris thought of draining the swamp lying east of the hotel containing eight or nine acres, but found this to be unfeasible or at least not advantageous, so he reversed the order and will make an artificial lake here, covering 15 acres. For this purpose men are now "diking" this swamp which will give an average depth of eight feet. This lake may be used for the propagation of fish.

A club of prominent business men of Columbus, of which A. J. Belham of the Parisian Cloak company is president, will build a number of cottages along the lake, while Hon. C. D. Watkins is to build a large bungalow.

The Buckeye Lake road has spent about $10,000 and in addition will provide a sanitary sewer system a water works for fire protection and other vast improvements along this line.

The lake has been channeled from the park to each one of the islands across stream, so that a steam boat will have no trouble in landing. This work was done by the state under the direction of Supt F. C. Dietz. The bath house has been moved where there are better beach facilities, and 75 car loads of gravel will be used in making walks which are to be lighted by electric arches similar to those at Idlewild.

ROOSEVELT IS OUTDOING KINGS

In Way of Military Pomp--Cavalry to Escort the New Ambassadors to White House--European Monarchs Do Not Make Such Show.

Washington, February 4.—President Roosevelt was so pleased with the effect of the cavalry escort which he ordered for ex-Governor Taft when that distinguished citizen arrived in Washington last week that he is going to extend the idea to all ambassadors who may hereafter come to Washington to represent European powers. He tried it on Elihu Root Monday afternoon when Mr. Root started for the Pennsylvania station to take a train for New York; and it worked beautifully for everybody but the men astride the troop horses. The weather was bitter cold and there was a raw gale from the west. The troopers had to ride for nearly four miles into the teeth of winter blasts to reach the war department, from which Mr. Root was to depart to take his train. Then they had to ride a mile down Pennsylvania avenue over ice-covered asphalt that rendered it difficult for the horses to keep on their feet.

The fact that Mr. Root was just a plain, private citizen, who was returning to his home to engage in the practice of law, did not detract from the spectacle of the escort. It was equally true that Mr. Taft was a private citizen on the occasion of his arrival in Washington last week when he found a troop of cavalry waiting at the station to escort him to the war department.

The President's decision to extend the practice to arriving ambassadors will cause his party friends and supporters a great deal of uneasiness and worry. They are afraid of the ultimate effect of this sort of thing on the public mind. They have not the least doubt that before congress adjourns the Democrats of both the House and Senate will point out the wide departure from the indiscriminate use of the military for show and semistate purposes involves.

"It will be only a step," said a Republican senator, "to adopting the practice generally for the reception of all members of the cabinet. Marines, I have no doubt, will be ordered out to escort a new secretary of the navy to the department and the old one to the station. Detachments from the revenue cutters will be employed similarly for secretaries of the treasury. It is a bad precedent and I am sorry the President has taken it up. He would have done better to let it alone."

Persons familiar with customs and practices abroad regard it as extremely peculiar that the President of a republic should establish such a precedent so purely military as the designation of troops to act as escort for arriving ambassadors. No such courtesy is shown to new ambassadors at the European capitals. They are permitted to arrive and make their way to hotels with little notice.

The fact that President Roosevelt will furnish cavalry escorts for all future new ambassadors will make it incumbent on European governments to do likewise for American ambassadors.

Militarism is increasing in Washington to an extent that was never before dreamed of. The formation of the general staff has brought to the capital so many officers, young and old, that work cannot be found for more than half of them. The same is true to a certain extent of the navy. The natural result of the presence of so large a number of unemployed army officers is the conception of military schemes of every conceivable character. A great many of these conceptions reach the President's ears and invariably engage his earnest attention. His party supporters in congress are devoutly praying that he will forget them hereafter.

SAID TO BE THE MOTIVE FOR MR. FORAKER'S BILL.

Senator Displeased at President's Refusal to Help Him in Ohio—His Trust Measure.

New York, Feb. 4.—A special dispatch to the World from Washington says that Senator Foraker, by the introduction of his bill to nullify all existing antitrust legislation, has more than offset the gratitude of President Roosevelt for the good work performed by the senator in Ohio.

It is admitted by close friends of President Roosevelt that he is greatly incensed at the action of Senator Foraker.

It is said that notice has been served upon the senator that he must do all in his power to counteract the effect of his action.

Senator Foraker bears a chastened and subdued look.

He sat quiet for thirty minutes while Senator Hoar explained how different his views are from those embodied in the Foraker bill. He took other lectures with a mildness that was surprising.

He refused to discuss for publication the effects of his bill, his intention when offering it, or the possibility of its being pressed for passage.

He said no additional statement would be made by him.

The impression prevails among Mr. Foraker's associates in the senate that soreness was the impelling cause of his bill.

It was prepared a year ago, but was held until the Northern Securities case should be argued before the supreme court.

Mr. Foraker needed some emergency assistance in Ohio.

He desired to be chosen as a delegate at large to the Republican-national convention.

He begged the president to select at least two good federal positions and let them have them to bolster up his cause.

He named the postmaster at Napoleon and Lima as meeting the requirements.

The President thought well of Mr. Foraker's proposition. He summoned Representative Dick to the White House and told him to reach an agreement with Mr. Foraker regarding these two appointments.

Mr. Dick persuaded the President to defer action until Senator Hanna should be well enough to take up the question.

The President promised to wait. This irritated Mr. Foraker.

He is said to have grown so sore he decided to let the President have a bad half hour by introducing his bill.

That the President experienced his bad half hour is generally admitted. That Mr. Foraker will be punished is openly proclaimed by the President's closest friends.

AMUSEMENTS.

There is no actress on the American stage today better suited to portray the merry, gentle, petulant, winsome Virginia Carvel than is Isabel Irving. She has been tried in the part by the critics in all the large cities in this country and she has been declared perfect. "The Crisis" is essentially a play for a woman star, although so well is it constructed that "The Crisis" is not really a star play at all. Miss Irving is surrounded by the original "Crisis" company and the entire production comes direct from the hands of Mr. Hackett himself, who in spite of the fact that he was worried and harassed with his own production of "John Ermine and the Yellowstone," gave two weeks of his time to the superintending of the rehearsals of Miss Irving and her company. PROSECUTORS

Meet in Columbus at Chittenden Hotel to Discuss Questions to Their Interest.

Prosecuting Attorney J. A. Fitzgibbon went to Columbus today to attend a meeting of the Prosecutors' Association to be held in the Chittenden Hotel, to discuss questions to their interest.

Among the important legislation the association will ask is a law to make forfeited criminal bonds collectable. Now few of them are ever collected for the reason that it requires a long suit against the bondsman, who usually disposes of his property before judgment can be secured. The law asked would make the bond a lien upon the bondsman's property from the moment he signed the bond. Should the accused skip, the court would simply render judgment on the bond without a suit.

Such a law would make property owners hesitate about going on criminal bonds and when they do so it would be incumbent upon them to keep a watch on the criminal or search for him should he flee.

The prosecutors also want the peremptory challenge law amended so as to reduce those of the defense and increase the state's. Now the accused has 16 and the state two. The prosecutors want the number fixed as four to six or six to eight.

HALF A CENTURY OF SUCCESS

Because it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it in the fifty years since it was prescribed for the late Rev. Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., by whom it was recommended and from whom it derived its name, Father John's Medicine is guaranteed to cure any cough, cold, throat or lung trouble, or the money is refunded. It builds up the body and restores health and strength to those who are weak and run down. Aside from the purpose in calling your attention to this old remedy, it is important for you to know that it is not a patent medicine and that it is free from opium, morphia or other poisonous drugs, upon which many so-called "immediate cures" depend for their effect, and which are dangerous. You are warned against them. This old remedy and its history are vouched for by reliable indorsements.

A DAMAGE SUIT FILED.

City of Newark and B. & O. Railway are Defendants—Mrs. Mary McDowell Granted a Divorce—A Forgery Charge Withdrawn. Day's Court Notes.

Bernard Kreager, an infant, by Berntha D. Kreager, his next friend, has commenced suit in the Common Pleas Court against the City of Newark and the B. & O. railroad company for $5000 damages for injuries sustained by running against an electric light pole adjacent to and adjoining Morris street, in the East End, maintained by said railroad company, in which a number of iron pins were driven. The plaintiff says that Joseph B. Kreager, the father of Bernard Kreager, on March 17, 1901, was employed as an engineer by the B. & O. and that on the evening of said day Bernard Kreager, who was aged about eight years, started to go with his brother Earl, from his home on Morris street, to the railroad yards, on an errand for his father, and that while running along the street he ran against the pole, one of the pins striking him in the right eye injuring it so that the eye was destroyed and he became permanently blind.

Plaintiff also says that the city of Newark was guilty of negligence in allowing the pole to remain after it had notice that the same was there. Plaintiff further says that his injury was not produced by carelessness on his part, but was produced entirely by the carelessness of the defendants in erecting and maintaining said pole, to the damage of the plaintiff in the sum of $5000. DRESS CAUGHT FIRE.

Five Year Old Dorothy Mossbrooke Was Saved From an Awful Death by Mrs. A. P. Teuscher but Both Were Painfully Injured.

Dorothy Mossbrooke, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mossbrooke of 67 Columbia street, had a narrow escape from a frightful death about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. P. Teuscher, who lives near the Mossbrooke home, and to whose bravery and presence of mind the little one owes her life today.

The little girl was over to Mrs. Teuscher's home indulging in play about the house, when in some manner her dress caught fire from a natural gas heating stove. The dress caught in the back and in an instant was blazing far above the child's head. She hardly had time to scream with fright and pain until Mrs. Teuscher saw her fearful peril. Never hesitating an instant the courageous woman, without a thought of her own danger, caught her little sister in her arms and began fighting the fire with her hands and attempting to tear the flaming clothing from the child's body. In this however, she was only partially successful, other portions of her dress caught fire and the child and her sister both seemed doomed, as the sleeves of the latter's dress had ignited. Then came a thought which undoubtedly proved the salvation of both. A heavy rug was lying on the floor and putting the child down, she quickly enveloped her in the smothering folds, which put out the fire and surely saved the life of the child.

Not until she knew Dorothy was safe did Mrs. Teuscher give a thought to herself, and then she knew that painful burns had been received, her hands being burned in blisters to the wrists, and her face also was painfully burned but not to the extent that the hands suffered. The Mossbrooke child escaped with only slight injuries, but had the dress caught fire in the front instead of the back, it is believed that even the prompt assistance of Mrs. Teuscher would not have prevented the inhalation of the flames.

Dr. H. D. Rank was called and attended the injuries of both.

The skeptic is a person who regards it as his mission to take the favors we may do and treat them with suspicion.

ATTENDANCE

At the Special Services at Plymouth Church is Good—Rev. W. A. Waterman Preaches.

The pentecostal service at the Plymouth Congregational church Wednesday night was well attended and greatly profitable to those who were present. Dr. Waterman preached an inspiring sermon on "Heroism." He said the world's heroes, whom we delight to honor were made in the church. Religion formed their characters and gave them power; that the world's heroes were God-fearing men. The elements of heroism are self-sacrifice, patience and well-doing—obedience, fear, self-denial. Each of these was illustrated by the ancient worthies, the record of whose conquests is found in the 11th chapter of Hebrews. We are not without living illustrations of the same. It is easy to run the fads and float down stream—hard to face the current, but victory and manhood are ours when we do right, though the popular tide is against us. The divine purpose for which Christ was, namely, to redeem and then restore mankind to the physical, mental and spiritual perfection, lost through the Adamic fall, will be consummated, and then is yet to be inaugurated an age of righteousness, when all will come to a knowledge of the truth. The heroic form the army that under God is to usher in that age. Let us be men then, men filling in the church, the heroic.

Song service tonight at 7:30. You are invited to attend.

NURSING MOTHERS

"A richer milk than milk" is good food for nursing mothers. Scott's Emulsion is the rich cream of cod liver oil, and contains ten times as much cream as milk does.

The nursing mother must eat with the purpose of producing good, nourishing milk for her baby. A little Scott's Emulsion is often a very wise addition to her daily diet. If through nervousness or weakness her milk is a failure, Scott's Emulsion will help make it a success.

The baby gets the benefit, too, when the mother takes Scott's Emulsion. The same remedy brings new strength and nourishment to both.

LECTURE

ON WONDERFUL RADIUM MAY BE GIVEN.

If Enough Tickets Are Sold Prof. Beatty Will Come to Newark—About Radium.

An illustrated lecture may be given in this city soon under the auspices of the Library Association of the Newark High School by Prof. W. B. Beatty on Radium and Wireless Telegraphy.

If enough tickets are sold to guarantee the expense the lecture will be given.

Radium is today the talk of the scientific world. Only an ounce and a half of it exists today in the world and it is worth 5000 times its weight in pure gold, and the demand for it is much greater than the supply. Radium is estimated to continue to give out energy unimpaired for millions of years—a dynamo without the expenditure of fuel.

Radium causes genuine diamonds to burst into a phosphorescence when brought near, even when separated by metals, books, or other things ordinarily impenetrable.

Radium, immersed in liquid air, 312 degrees below zero, continues to give out heat and light—apparently unaffected by its frigid surroundings.

To secure the precious radium grains may be likened to a search for specks of dust hidden in a sand pile, or for drops of perfume scattered in a river. Tons and tons of pitch blende, the residue of uranium mines, are worked over for months and months, with infinite pains, aided by all the resources of chemistry—by boiling and filtering, decanting and crystallizing, with much fuming of acids and steady glow of furnaces—until a few grains of radium salt are secured, of such concentrated strength as to possess many, many thousand times the radio activity of metallic uranium.

Radium is a seemingly inexhaustible battery of energy, ceaselessly giving forth heat and light without perceptible waste or diminution of itself.

Radium constantly gives off three new and distinct kinds of rays, each possessing remarkable qualities—in addition to which are the peculiar emanations of the radium itself.

Radium has properties fatal to animal and seed life when in proximity. It has to be handled most carefully, a coating of lead giving protection to the operator's hand.

Other properties of radium give promise of incalculable benefit to humanity by therapeutic use, reliable European physicians reporting supposed cures from its use in the treatment of lupus, cancer and other diseases. Some predict its successful use for consumption.

Radium ray will almost instantly penetrate rubber, metals, wood, and other opaque substances. No previously known element, not even light or electricity, possesses such wonderful penetrative power.

One scientific achievement follows another so fast that we have almost lost the faculty of surprise. But the recent achievement of Marconi in sending messages 3000 miles over the Atlantic without the use of wires, is so extraordinary that the world is still guessing what large part this new invention will play.

A lecture on these subjects illustrated by experiments would be of great interest and Newark people would undoubtedly patronize it as they did the Woodland lecture on Liquid Air.

Tendency of the Times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip), and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

THREE STAMPS

Sent to Street Car Company in Payment of a Ride Stolen Eighteen Years Ago

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 4.—From far-off California comes a companion of "conscience money" to the officials of the Cincinnati Traction company. It is only six cents remitted in the shape of three two-cent postage stamps, but the writer says it is in payment of the fare for a ride taken about eighteen years ago. The letter comes from John Beckel, of San Jose, and was addressed to the "Zoo-logical Street Car company." It was delivered to Supl. Robert E. Lee of the Cincinnati Traction company. The letter says:

Want New Measure Passed for Court to Fix Compensation and Number Required

Columbus, O., Feb. 4.—Charles C. Cooper, of Newark, court stenographer of Licking county, was interviewing the senators yesterday regarding a bill to be introduced in behalf of the court stenographers of the state.

"We want it provided," explained Cooper to Senator Houck, "that the court shall fix the compensation and determine the number of court stenographers the business of the court requires."

"You might add," suggested Houck, "that in such cases it would be well for the court stenographers to stand in with the court."

HOUSEKEEPER

Files Bill for $24,000 Against the Estate of Late Urbana Land Owner.

Urbana, O., Feb. 4.—Mrs. Lucy Gullett, who was for 22 years the housekeeper and assistant manager for the late Harvey Kenton, whose death occurred last week, Wednesday filed her bill for services with the administrator of the Kenton estate. The period of time extends over 1045 weeks and she wants $24,645.

Kenton, who was wifeless and childless, had no one to care for him and the claimant states that he promised to give her the home and 200 acres of adjoining land for her services and would have done so had not the relatives threatened him with a guardian.

Mr. Kenton, who was a relative of the great Simon Kenton, owned about 1400 acres in this county besides large land holdings in Texas and Illinois. His estate is said to be worth much over $100,000.

Harvey Kenton was several years ago the victim of a gold brick scheme which cost him several thousand dollars.

GRANVILLE

A Musical Event of the Year Was the Presentation of Handel's Oratorio Wednesday Night.

Granville, O., Feb. 4.—One of the most enjoyable musical events of the year was the presentation of Handel's Oratorio, "The Messiah," by the choir of the Baptist church on Wednesday evening under the direction of Miss Jennie E. Blinn of the Conservatory of Music. A large and appreciative audience filled the church and the oratorio was exceptionally well received. Its success is greatly due to the ceaseless and painstaking efforts of Miss Blinn, to whom great praise is due. Those assisting the choir were Mrs. Edith Sage McDonald, soprano, of Columbus; Miss Evelyn Thomas, contralto, of Columbus; Mr. Thomas Phillips, tenor, Mr. Legier, bass, Miss Jerie E. Blinn, director.

Especially worthy of mention are the solos of Mrs. McDonald, Miss Thomas, Mr. Phillips and Mr. Legier.

Great credit is due all the choir and their co-operatives for the splendid presentation of this Handel's most difficult but charming "Messiah." Perhaps the most pleasing part of the program was the "Hallelujah chorus" rendered at the end of the program. This was especially beautiful, artistic and thrilling.

Miss Emma Maylene of Newark was the guest of Miss Florence Parrish of King hall, Shephardson college, Wednesday.

Mr. Henry Colly, D. T. '61, of St. Louis, Mo., has been visiting his Sigma Chi brothers here.

The robbers were frightened and made their escape.

The little grocery is a mile from the center of the city, but is in a thickly populated district. There was only $3 in the cash drawer, and the robbers took nothing. Glover is reported to be rich.

It is enough to say that I suffered, was nearly helpless and could get nothing to help until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Crayton's drug store. I happened to read in one of the local papers something pertaining to them, and I went there and got some. I was much surprised at the quickness of the relief they gave and I have told lots of other people about them."
